UPJ Students Visit Operating Engineers Training Site

CAWP facilitated a tour for a group of UPJ's AGC Student Chapter members on Friday, November 12. Ten students learned about the union apprenticeship process, toured the training center, and were able to operate several pieces of heavy equipment. During the visit, students interacted with instructors and Apprenticeship Coordinator, Dennis Manown. Jason Koss provided career guidance and industry info to the group. Additionally, due to CAWP's Alliance with OSHA, Bob Carroll, Compliance Assistance representative with OSHA spoke to the students about importance of safety in construction.

CAWP sponsors several AGC Student Chapters throughout the region so that college students enrolled in engineering and construction-related fields have access to CAWP contractors and information on our industry. This is an important component of CAWP's workforce development program.
